STRATEGY

As a seasoned Leadership & Organizational Development professional, Christie Gilbert provides consulting and coaching services that exceed client expectations. She brings process methodologies and tools to organizations, resulting in measurable performance improvements. Christie focuses on leveraging and enhancing leadership capabilities to drive results, by working with teams to plan and implement strategic business initiatives.

Christie's international experience includes over 20 years working with organizations in the US, Europe, and Asia. She has worked across industry sectors, including computer technology, pharmaceuticals, biotechnology, hospitality, construction, energy, and retail. She has coached executive and mid-level leaders in large, medium, and small (start-up) companies, and continues to provide ongoing coaching and facilitation for leadership development programs and initiatives.

Christie has served as Director of Global Learning and Development for Peregrine Systems and Memec LLC, Manager of Management Development for FedEx Kinko's, and Organizational Effectiveness Manager for Compaq Computer Corporation (now Hewlett-Packard).

Christie earned her B.S. in Business Management from Regis University. She holds a Master's Certificate in Curriculum Instructional Design and Technology with an emphasis on Corporate Education and Adult Learning, from the University of Colorado. She lives in Boulder, Colorado, where she spends time with family and friends enjoying the outdoors.
